Greetings,

Labor Day week-end is around the corner and I saw Halloween decorations for sale in a store; summer must be winding down. As Superintendent of Anglophone North School District, I am pleased to say welcome back to the 2013-14 school year. For many of our students and families, this will either be your first or last year with us in the public school system. Whether you are thinking about getting on that big yellow bus for the first time or deciding what to wear to prom, it is my sincere wish that you have an outstanding year.

All of us: teachers, principals, support staff and district office staff have been hard at work getting ready for September 3rd. Our schools are ready to receive students and what a great year it will be! It is exciting to imagine the possibilities this year and the learning opportunities that students will have. I encourage each student in Anglophone North School District to make the most of what we have to offer. Your school year will only be as good as you want it to be. Be kind to others and treat everyone with the respect that we each deserve. Don't be a bully and do not tolerate this behavior in others.

Parents and guardians, please work closely with your child's school. Open communication is key! Do not hesitate to contact the school for assistance. We count you as a valuable member of our team and look forward to working with you.

Did you know that we have a new mission statement?

The Anglophone North School District community commits to engaging children and students in an inclusive environment that embraces teamwork, responsibility, innovation and personal excellence.

Have a great year!

Nancy Boucher-Superintendent
